

Overwhelmed at home mom language bank (m)

Categories Language Bank

Avatar - The Overwhelmed At-Home Mom

LANGUAGE BANK

POWER WORDS Accidents

Fully potty trained

Pediatricians

Pull Ups / Diaper

Leaks

Stubborn

Toddler

Resistance / Regression

Pressure

cold turkey

TRIGGER PHRASES

(sentences that get response) "It was truly just really frustrating that our house was starting to smell like pee."

I have been potty training my son for a few months and it was more cleaning than ever.

"no messes on floors and furniture!"

(...) She has gone commando and will hide around the corner and pee or poo on my floor. I have no idea what motivates her.

"My washing pile is taller than me!"

"(People say "just remove the diaper" but) I don't have thousands of dollars to replace furniture and carpet unfortunately."

"I even tried to put plastic on my couch to help with the accidents."

"I used garbage bags on the couch cushions. It's cheaper and easier to remove"

"I have cleaned up SO much piss today."

"By 10am he managed to pee on all 7 cushions on my couch."

"My house is ruined. I'm constantly covered (in poo and) pee"

"Potty training is killing me. Three years of hell."

"She's peed on my couch and my floor twice. 🤔"

METAPHORS

(How they describe the feeling) "we're feeling a little defeated with the task around my household."

"Going totally diaper free scares me because our house is carpet and she's super active so I can just put a puppy pad or something under her to catch an accident"

"Potty training without success is so frustrating and disheartening!"

"I'm done. I can't take it anymore. I hope you/I get some relief soon!"

"I have tried every single method of potty training but all that comes of it is me pulling my hair out and carpet cleaning my couch and scrubbing my floors while crying because my toddler just refuses to use the potty."

"She will sit on it for fifteen minutes and immediately pee her pants the moment she gets off the toilet. "

"Sorry, I'm just ranting because I don't have anywhere else to turn to about this."

"We've been potty training for three year. It destroyed me. My house is ruined. I'm constantly covered in poo and pee."

"I just don't want to go through this crap again and I feel like a terrible parent."

"I need support, or a company to do this for me. 🤔🤔🤔 (Potty training) "

"I feel so defeated and stressed out."

"I am crying because idk what to do."

SCENE DESCRIPTIONS

(specific moments) - Cleaning floor and carpet

- Covering couches/pillows with plastic bags

- Crying at home

- Running toddler to the toilet

- Big Washing pile in washroom

CHAT GPT Ideas:

Standing in the bathroom looking at another pair of soaked pants thinking, "We're in the same spot as we were a year ago."

Throwing yet another load of potty-training laundry into the machine.

Sitting on the floor after an accident, too tired to react.

Scrolling Facebook groups and seeing 2-year-olds already potty trained.

Carrying them screaming into the bathroom.

Child hiding to pee on the floor.

Child sitting in wet clothes without caring.

Arguing with your partner because one of you gives in when the crying starts.

FAILED SOLUTIONS

(what they have tried)
Straight to underwear

Pull-ups/Diapers

Training underwear

Reward like "candy/gummies"/Bribes (sweets, M&M, ...)

3 day (no underwear) method (3day naked method) (well hydrated)

Oh crap (famous potty training book method)

Timer/Potty Watch

Cocomelon potty song

BusyToddler's guide (many different books on that topic)

Sticker charts

Peer Motivation

Daniel Tiger potty episodes

"Just wait until he is ready"

"Let them drink water/juice (alot) so they have to go to the toilet the whole day"

OBJECTIONS

(what stops them) "He's just not ready":

"He's not really showing any interest yet."

"You can't potty train until your child decides it's time."

"Experts say wait for readiness."

"Kids learn at different times."

"Pushing beyond their ability can cause regressions."

"Forcing before developmentally ready leads to issues."

"I don't want to stress him":

"By getting frustrated, we made her feel pressure."

"She associated the potty with a bad thing."

"Pushing too early can cause regressions."

"We made her feel pressure and she associated the potty with a bad thing"

"He just refuses":

"My toddler is impossible to potty train."

"He won't catch on."

"He says he doesn't need to go."

"He pees 60 seconds later."

"Resistance."

"She just can't be bothered."

We've tried everything -> failed solutions

"I'm failing/I don't have the energy":

"I am a bad parent." / "I feel like a failure."

"I'll try again when I regain some energy."

"I don't know how to help my baby."

"Missed the potty training window."

"I don't have it in me."

"It's normal":

"Every child is different."

"Late potty training isn't new."

"There is no right age."

"Some kids take longer."

"It happens at different times."

"Regression is normal."

"We're still having issues/regressions and there's absolutely nothing wrong with my kid"

"My husband gives in"

VILLAIN It's honestly bc of the whole "wait until your child is ready" propaganda from diaper companies

AUTHORITY Early childhood professional

Former daycare worker

Pediatricians