

Overwhelmed at home mum (g)

Dieser Avatar unterscheidet sich stark von den anderen.

Der Hauptdruck kommt nicht von außen (wie beim Social Pressure Mom) und auch nicht von einer Deadline.

Der Druck kommt von:

- täglichem Chaos
- mental load
- ständigen Unfällen
- fehlender Energie

Der Kernemotion ist:

Erschöpfung.

This frustrated mama needs help.

The last few days my kiddo has been urinating in his underwear even after many attempts to take him pee.

He knows that big boys go on the toilet but still continues to do it in his underwear.

I don't want to go back to pull ups if I don't have to.

HELP.

I feel like I'm losing my mind.

Potty training days are boring.

Potty training is the worst thing I've experienced so far in parenthood.

Potty training without success is so frustrating and disheartening.

I feel so defeated and stressed out.

I hate potty training.

I have a girl and she gives zero effs about being wet.

My toddler is impossible to potty train.

Prompting him to go will result in a major meltdown.

He'll come home from daycare having gone through multiple pairs of pants.

We change his undies so many times throughout the day.

I feel like I need to go back to him being naked.

But how can we ever leave the house?

I don't have it in me to wash his car seat again this week.

I sprint after him and catch him and carry him screaming to the bathroom.

He is screaming like I'm murdering him.

My hands are tied up so I just accept the hits.

I do not have it in me anymore.

I'll try again when I regain some energy.

I'm just ranting because I don't have anywhere else to turn to.

Nothing helps.

I feel so defeated.

This is getting ridiculous.

I don't know what to do anymore.

This frustrated mama needs help.

The last few days my kiddo has been urinating in his underwear even after many attempts to take him pee.

Even after many attempts to take him pee he still goes in his underwear.

He knows for a fact that only babies pee in diapers and big boys go on the toilet but still continues to do it in his underwear.

I don't necessarily wanna go back to pull ups.

I would if it helped him but he's been in underwear for the past two weeks so I don't want to confuse him more.

HELP.

Potty training days are boring.

Potty training is the absolute worst.

Potty training is the worst thing I've experienced so far in parenthood.

Potty training without success is so frustrating and disheartening.

I hate potty training.

Nothing helps.

I feel so defeated and stressed out.

This is getting ridiculous and I feel like a failure.

I feel so defeated.

I don't know what to do anymore.

My toddler is impossible to potty train.

Prompting him to go will result in a major meltdown.

He is screaming like I'm murdering him.

I sprint after him and catch him and carry him screaming to the bathroom.

My hands are tied up so I just accept the hits because the alternative is him peeing in the car.

I do not have it in me to wash his car seat again this week.

He'll come home from daycare having gone through multiple pairs of pants.

She gives zero effs about being wet.

We change his undies so many times throughout the day.
